INTRODUCTORY.

In placing before the citizens of Jefferson City and Cole County the fourth volume of the Jefferson City and Cole County Directory, the publishers do so confident that it will meet the requirements of a large portion of the public, and are satisfied to let it rest on its merits as a work of its class, feeling certain that no more appropriate introduction can be offered than the assurance that nothing has been neglected on the part of the publishers to secure the utmost thoroughness and accuracy. While the volume is not so large as previous volumes, it contains at least 3000 more names, a larger description of the city and county and a complete index to our advertising patrons.

Sincere thanks are tendered those who by their patronage and support materially aided and encouraged the publishers in their work, and also to those who kindly assisted in collecting the information required in the preparation of the volume. It is our intention to continue in the publication of City Directories, and our next volume will in all probability surpass this one.

In conclusion, we give this volume to the citizens of Jefferson City and vicinity with the hope that the work we have undertaken will meet with their approval, and in two years from date we hope the city's increase will be large enough to let us prepare Volume V. of the Jefferson City and Cole County Directory.

Respectfully yours,

RAITHEL & MURPHY.

SUPREME COURT. GOVERNOR'S MANSION. ARMORY. STATE CAPITOL.

1821
Jefferson City.

Jefferson City is the Capital of the State of Missouri, being made so in 1820 when Missouri was admitted into the American Union of States. The site was specially and carefully selected for a Capital, so that the most equitable position within the State's boundary should be obtained. That the commission appointed to choose the site, chose well and wisely, everyone visiting the Capital must admit.

It is certainly the most beautiful town in the State, and it has often been said it is the only town in Missouri with pretensions to beauty. This is an opinion open to criticism as to what might constitute beauty in a city, but certain it is that in that charm of location, only a dowry from nature and to be modified, not altered, by man, Jefferson City stands unrivaled by any other town in the State. Two things make her location hardly possible to surpass, her being built on hills and at whose base surges the great bosom of one of the largest rivers which flow over a continent; from the head waters of the Missouri River to where the Mississippi empties into the Gulf, is the longest river in the world. Just as the placid, limitless surface of the green ocean rests the eye and calms the senses, as its same surface when whipped into hills of water with foaming crests seems to invigorate and electrify the mind, so does the view from most points of Missouri's Capital City, up and down or across the river on a cloudy day bring rest to the most tired spirit and in sunshine stimulates to noble actions, whose results must create a happiness around them aptly likened to the bright sunbeams, which dance over the rippling surface of the river and are lost among the endless landscape of green forest and yellow corn.

Every person officiating in American public life undergoes a tirade of calumny which, if a fraction of it were true, would hand us down to history as the most unprincipled generation of lawmakers that the world has produced, but if the worst of our people who come to the Capital in an official capacity are not ennobled and strengthened for their duties and the battle of life by the charm of their stay here, the glorious handiworks of God in nature have no attractions for the Missouri mind.

The grandest site in America selected for a residence was Monticello, the home of Jefferson, who wished it to command the widest view of the blue hills of his beloved Virginia. Those who named our Capital City after the great constitutional lawyer, must have been inspired with his same lofty spirit, when they decided to build Missouri's Capital overlooking the great river, and a landscape whose shades of color are too delicate and varied to be depicted on canvass and whose expanse is only bounded by the limit of the eye's vision to the east and west, and north, far distant, by the bluffs which tell how at some time the fickle current of the Missouri must have been many miles north of its present course.

No Capitol in the world stands on a site more appropriate to the State it makes government for, and no house of public legislative assembly overlooks such an attractive and entrancing landscape of land and water.

Yet withall it seems Missouri does not realize the abundant wealth and grandeur such a river brings to her, and what an important factor in her internal as well as national commerce, it might be made.

It is true the United States government is improving the river somewhat, but how many men do they work in a season? Fifty? A hundred at most! And how much work is accomplished? The State can do this itself easier and quicker than by waiting on Uncle Sam to do it. He is taking care of the Mississippi, which is a big enough task on his hands, and sufficient to occupy his attention for many years. Especially with a depleted treasury he cannot be hoped to do much for the Missouri River.

Jefferson City has a resident population of about 11,000 people. (See page 25). It is a well-built town, entirely of brick and stone. Excellent brick is made within its borders from the world famous clay of the Missouri River Valley. The town has a perfect system of water-works and sewerage, the natural drainage assisting the latter. The water is taken from the Missouri River, about a mile above the town, pumped to the filtering basins to a bluff higher than the balance of the city and then forced into a stand-pipe which is higher than the Capitol dome.

The city has been working two years and is now completing, at a cost of some $30,000, what is a perfect sewerage system, ample to meet a large growth in population.

The city's health is splendid. There are ten doctors making a fair livelihood, most of them doing also a country practice, which is about one to every two thousand. Epidemics are unknown.

The first State Legislature convened in Jefferson City in 1826. The members, 140 in the House, and 34 in the Senate, receive a daily stipend for their services, the session being limited to seventy days. The present complexion of the Senate is 19 Democrats and 15 Republicans; of the House, 79 are Democrats, 47 Republicans and 14 Populists. There are 16 lawyers and 7 farmers in the Senate; 55 farmers and 33 lawyers in the House.

Jefferson City is located 13 miles from the geographical center of the State, thus subserving the convenience of the greatest possible portion of the people. The city has three trunk lines of railroad: Missouri Pacific, Chicago and Alton and Missouri, Kansas and Texas. The public buildings of Jefferson City amply meet the demands of the State officers and leave nothing to be desired in the matter of comfort and appointment. An Armory, Capitol, Supreme Court, Library (35,000 vols.), and Governor's Mansion; the State has expended some $2,000,000 on the Capitol. During 1887 and '88, the two wings and dome were added.

Jefferson City people are not behind hand in local improvements. Among which we notice in the past two years: Construction of a magnificent steel bridge across the river, at a cost of $200,000, all home capital.

A new County Court House, at a cost of $60,000.

A new flour mill, 450 barrels' capacity.

Four new churches, costing $25,000.

Sewer system, $30,000.

Streets and sidewalks, $20,000, and any number of new residences.

A $50,000 hotel, a new opera house, a four-story bank building, besides many business houses and private residences will go up in the spring.

The city's gas plant has been in operation twenty-five years; its capacity is 100,000 feet daily; annual consumption is 4 1-2 millions daily.

The city has been illuminated by the rays of the electric arc light now twelve years. The plant has a capacity for 60 arc and 3000 incandescent lamps; the streets are lit by 38 arc lamps, the light from the Capitol dome can be seen at 8 miles' distance, and the citizens use over 2000 lights; this spring the charge for electric lighting has been greatly reduced. The gas and electric light and power plants are owned by one company.

For the past twenty years the progress of the city has been retarded by the continuous agitation of Capitol removal, but the Legislature of 1895 passed a concurrent resolution submitting the question to the qualified voters of the State, and on the 3d of November, 1896, the people of the State decided that Jefferson City should remain the Capital by over 150,000 majority. Since then the town has started a healthy boom, real estate offices are seen with their many inducements for buyers and buildings are being erected in every part of the city.

Cole County.

Cole County, Missouri, of which Jefferson City is the County Seat, has a population of about 25,000, and is situated in the central portion of the State. It is famous for its having been the scene of many important events which took place during the early settlement of Missouri. It has an area of about 250,000 acres, nearly all of which is tillable land, and which is as productive as any soil in the State, the annual product being valued at about $1,100,000. Its inhabitants are a thrifty and prosperous class of people, and are all well-to-do and intelligent. Any enterprise spoken of is always "backed" by the people when the same is of general advantage to the inhabitants, though a majority are of a conservative disposition and are loathe to take hold of any "wild-cat" schemes; therefore, it is morally pure, which forms its foundation for prosperity. The county is well provided with public schools and churches, and every denomination is here represented and all are prospering in the cause they represent; the schools being far ahead of those of the average. All of the citizens take pride in the progress of the schools and are ever ready to help any proposed advancement which may be for the bettering of the opportunities presented to their children.

The principal crops are corn—which is not excelled by any county in the State—wheat, which is classed with that of the highest grade and most excellent quality; hay, equal to any raised, and oats which is as good as any raised in this State. Some rye is also raised, but only in small quantities, though the same is highly adaptable to the soil of the county. The yield of wheat averages from twenty-five to thirty-two bushels per acre; all its other products average in proportion. Its blue grass pastures are not excelled even by those famous fields of blue grass in the State of Kentucky.

The county is famous for its excellent fruits, such as peaches, pears, apples and berries, the latter becoming famous even as far west as the State of Colorado, and its other fruits, though equally as good in quality, are not raised in sufficient quantities to allow shipments to any extent. Blackberries, raspberries and dewberries grow wild in abundance, and sarvis berries and mulberries are plentiful.

As to its live stock it is equal to any, and many fine horses and mules are purchased within its borders for shipments to various markets. The climate is especially adaptable to sheep raising, and most of the farmers of the county have large herds which prove to be profitable investment. Hogs and cattle are plentiful, and the best stock afforded by the markets are to be found within its borders.

Timbered lands are plentiful, and railroad ties are made by the thousands every year, yet the timber supply seems inexhaustible and as great as that of twenty years ago. The timber consists chiefly of ash, walnut, hickory, oak, elm and other kinds of less value.

Many lead, zinc and coal beds are to be found within its borders, but as yet comparatively few are developed, though such as have been worked are paying good dividends. Its lead mines are totally undeveloped, though some of the prospects are flattering, and it is expected that within the present year several lead and zinc mines will be opened and put in operation.

The Missouri and Osage Rivers run the entire length of the county and afford a source for marketing where railroads do not run. The Missouri, the famous "Big Muddy," is its northern boundry, and the Osage forms that of the southern and eastern, while on the west it borders on Moniteau and Morgan counties. The Osage River, though not so famous as the river Hudson for its scenery, is not excelled, and scenes of grandeur and beauty can be seen along its banks that are equaled only by those so famous on the banks of the Hudson.

Game in plenty can be found within its borders, though most of such consists of turkeys, quail, ducks, geese, squirrels, rabbits, opossums, raccoons and other small wild animals. Deer formerly were plentiful, though they are now seldom found. The foxes, whose homes are in the beautiful hills of the Osage and Moreau Rivers, afford a source of enjoyment to lovers of a chase.

There is usually an overflow of the Moreau River, which runs through every township in the county once in every three or four years and which leaves a sediment on the land which proves to be an excellent fertilizer and well repays the farmers for the damage they sustain by reason of the overflow. Frequently the Osage overflows with the same result. In these smaller streams fish can be found in plenty.

A branch of the Missouri Pacific Railway runs entirely through the county from southwest to northeast and the main line of the Missouri Pacific runs through the northern portion. It is also connected by a large steel wagon bridge across the Missouri River with the Chicago and Alton and the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railways.

Its markets are of the best and the highest prices can always be had for the produce of the farmers, which is mostly disposed of in Jefferson City, the county seat.

The entire county is well provided with postal service, even in the most remote parts of the county they have their daily mail. The following small towns are located throughout the county: Bass, Brazito, Centretown, Decatur, Duck (better known as Scott's), Elston, Hickory Hill, Jefferson City, Lohman, Marion, Millbrook, Osage City, Osage Bluff, Russellville, St. Thomas, Scruggs, Taos, Teal and Wardville.

THE NEW COLE COUNTY COURT HOUSE.

The Cole County Court House, built after the plans and under the supervision of Architect Frank B. Miller, is one of the most magnificent structures of its character in the State, and an everlasting credit to the enterprise of the citizens and tax payers of the county. The style of architecture adopted was of the Romanesque type, consistently carried out through the entire structure. The walls being of Carthage line stone from foundation to top of dome gives the building a massive and substantial appearance and lends beauty to its architecture.

The general dimensions of this building is 78x118 feet, and the dome rises 137 feet above the sidewalk, from which height a magnificent view can be had of the surrounding country. The basement is finished throughout, and can be used for office purposes if desired, but at present it is only used for public purposes. The first floor contains most of the principal offices, and these offices have large and convenient vaults, that are amply lighted and equipped with all the modern steel furniture and file cases. The second story is reached by two flights of iron stairs and contains the Circuit Court room, Attorney and Sheriff's offices, besides grand and petit jury rooms, lavatories, etc. The third story is used for jury rooms entirely, and provisions are made for the comfort and convenience of juries that are locked up for any length of time. The entire building is neatly finished in different kinds of hardwood and is steam heated. The cost of this building was phenomenally low considering its character—$60,000—and the county that could duplicate it for that money would be exceedingly fortunate. The contractor for this building was Mr. H. J. Wallan, a citizen of the county.

Estimated Population.

The United States census of 1890 gave Jefferson City 6,742, including the Penitentiary. Since then the city has been increasing steadily, and if the same ratio continues the next United States census will show at least 15,000. In support of the Directory estimate of the population of 1897 the publishers submit the following table showing the number of names under each letter of the alphabet for the last four years, there being a marked increase of each letter. As we only take those of the proper age and omit the husband's wives that are not engaged in any occupation, by multiplying the total by three you will come very near getting the actual population of the city:

Schott's Artesian Well

This Artesian Well is 1,365 feet deep and has Standing Mineral Water of a depth of 1,305 feet. The water is drawn from a depth of 1,245 feet, and contains the following medicinal properties, as ascertained by A. Brandenberger, Chemist.

ANALYSIS: In one gallon or 231 cubic inches of water from Schott's well I found:

Sodium Chloride	229.184 grains
Calcium Sulphate	46.760 "
Sodium Bicarbonate	21.060 "
Magnesia Bicarbonate	74.861 "
Calcium Bicarbonate	68.050 "
Silica	5.840 "
Alumina	a trace
Total solid contents	446.355 "
Temperature 68° F.

This was taken from the well when it was 1,245 feet deep.

The Old Reliable

MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILWAY.

WHY?

BECAUSE of her five Superb Trains east to west and west to east daily. All equipped with the Finest High-back Coaches, elegant (free seat) Chair Cars, luxurious Pullman Palace Parlor and Sleeping Cars.

BECAUSE her trains make the fastest time, and are run so regularly on time that "The On Time Line" has become one of her popular names.

BECAUSE she binds with a friendly grasp the great States Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas.

BECAUSE she employs the most reliable and courteous staff of men to be found.

Sickness is often brought on by the use of Impure Ice. Too much care cannot be taken to avoid this danger. The surest way is to use only the Manufactured Ice. We make our Ice from Condensed Steam, and it keeps as long,
 costs the same, and contains none of the impurities found in ice taken from ponds, etc.
